News Release

April 6, 2016

The Information and Privacy Commissioner releases her comments about the new identification requirements under the *Elections Act

WHITEHORSE – As a result of recent amendments to the Elections Act, the Chief Electoral Officer is required by that Act to consult a number of persons, including Yukon's Information and Privacy Commissioner, before making her decision about the kinds of identification that electors should be able to use for the purposes of the Elections Act. The Information and Privacy Commissioner (IPC) recently provided her comments to the Chief Electoral Officer. These comments can be found on the IPC's website at the following link.
